Anglicanism was brought to the New World by explorers and colonists with the first celebration of the Holy Eucharist in Jamestown, Virginia, in 1607. There was no resident Bishop for nearly two hundred years, causing problems when many of the clergy sided with the Crown during the American Revolution. In 1784, the Scottish Episcopal Church consecrated the first American Bishop. The Church has 9 Provinces, 98 Dioceses, plus 20 overseas jurisdictions. Out of a population of 284 million, only 2 million are Episcopalians, in 7,095 parishes, with 15,310 clergy.

Saturday 3 September Gregory the Great, Bishop, teacher, 540-604

Son of a Roman Senator, (inherited great wealth) became prefect of Rome but later sold all his estates and founded seven monasteries, entering one of them himself. As abbot, he is reputed to have seen some fair haired slaves in the market and hearing that they were Angles, decided on a mission to England. But before he could go Gregory was elected as Pope (Gregory I) and Augustine was sent to England in his place. Gregory took a group of monks with him to the Vatican and continued to live the monastic life there. He was a prodigious writer and many of his pastoral letters, books and commentaries survive.

Anglican Communion Diocese of Gippsland - (Province of Victoria, Australia) Bishop Kay Goldsworthy, clergy and people.

The Province of the Anglican Church of Australia. The Church came to Australia in 1788 with the First Fleet, which was made up primarily of convicts and military personnel. Free settlers soon followed. A General Synod held in 1872 formed the Australian Board of Missions; missionary work among the aborigines and the Torres Strait Islanders was key to the growth of the Church. The Anglican Church of Australia is part of the Christian Conference of Asia and of the Council of the Church of East Asia. Links with Churches of New Guinea, Melanesia and Polynesia are strong especially through the Australian Board of Mission. Population 18 million, Christians 12.5 million, Anglicans 4 million, Parishes 3,313, and clergy just over 2,000.

St John Chrysostom, Bishop, Teacher, 347-407

Studied at Antioch, became a monk, then called to be patriarch of Constantinople. An austere man, who lived simply, he incurred the opposition of the imperial court for his attacks on their morals and extravagance. The Empress Endoxia defied him and he attracted the enmity of Theophilus, patriarch of Alexandria, whom he denounced as corrupt. Theophilus summoned a council who condemned John then exiled him. John was harried from place to place. Seventeen letters from John to Olympias, also persecuted, survive. Frail and exhausted, John died in exile

Thursday 15 September St Cyprian, Bishop, Martyr, 200-258

Of Roman stock, studied law and rhetoric before becoming a Christian. Ordained and became Bishop of Carthage. During the persecution of the Emperor Decian he went into exile but wrote pastoral letters to his people. When the persecutions finished he had to deal with the Lapsi (Christians who had agreed to worship the Roman Gods). He ruled that they should undergo penances but, after an interval, be re-admitted to the Church. In later persecutions, under Decian, Cyprian again went into exile but returned to Carthage and was martyred there.

Friday 16 September St Ninian, Bishop, Apostle of the Picts, c432

Most of our information about Ninian comes from Bede's history written nearly 300 years later. He tells us that when Columba came from Iona to evangelize the "northern Picts" the "southern Picts" had already received the Gospel from Ninian "a very reverend and holy man of British race". Ninian may have received his early training in Rome. Excavations at Whithorn, in S. Scotland have found the white stones of a church which may be the 'stately church', Candida Casa, (the White House) mentioned by Bede as a place of pilgrimage.

She wrote many letters of counsel and advice to people in authority, including four popes. She was also a poet and has been compared to Dante and to Blake. Monday 19 September Theodore of Tarsus, Archbishop, 602-690

When Islam took power in Asia Minor, Theodore went to Italy and became a monk-scholar in Rome. At the age of 66 he was sent to England to heal the divisions between the Celtic and Latin clergy. Bede says "he visited every part of the island". He called two episcopal synods, re-organised the dioceses and appointed new bishops. He was sometimes ruthless but highly efficient. Bede recounts how he dealt with Chad, first declaring that his consecration to York was invalid, but then, pleased with his humility, consecrated him and sent him to Mercia. The story goes that he told Chad he must ride a horse to cover his new diocese and when Chad demurred Theodore hoisted him into the saddle. Theodore died at the age of 88 having established the structure originally envisaged by Pope Gregory the Great when he sent Augustine on his mission in 597.

Anglican Communion	Diocese of Guyana - (Province of West Indies) Bishop Charles Davidson, clergy and people. The West Indies became a self-governing Province of the worldwide Anglican Communion in 1883 because of the Church of England missions in territories that became British colonies. It is made up of two mainland dioceses and six island dioceses, including Barbados, Belize, Guyana, Jamaica, Nassau and the Bahamas, Tobago, Trinidad, and the Windward Islands. Great emphasis is being placed on training personnel for an indigenous ministry. The island locations and scattered settlements make pastoral care difficult and costly.

Tuesday 20 September John Coleridge Patteson, Bishop and Companions, Martyrs, 1871

Curate of Ottery St Mary in Devon, went out to Melanesia to join the young bishop George Selwyn whom he had known at Eton. He visited the islands, learned the many different languages and started a school on Norfolk Island for Melanesian boys. In 1861 he became Bishop of Melanesia. Trouble came from an indenture system started by planters from Fiji and Australia. In 1871 Bishop Patteson landed with a few companions on the island of Natapu unaware that planters had recently been there and that five islanders had been killed. A small canoe, containing the Bishop's body and a palm frond bearing five knots, one for each murdered islander, was pushed out towards the waiting ship. Three of the Bishop's companions died from poisoned arrow wounds. In England the news was met with shock and Parliament regulated the labour trade and ended the indenture system.

Thursday 29 September St Michael and All Angels

Michael the Archangel is mentioned four times in Scripture, twice in Daniel (10.13 and 12.1), once in Jude (v.9) (in a dispute over the body of Moses) and once in Revelation 12.7-9, fighting the dragon. He was, in the early days of the Church regarded as the helper of Christian armies against the heathens. Throughout the Middle Ages St Michael was much venerated and many churches are dedicated to him.

Friday 30 September St Jerome translator, teacher of the faith, 342-420

Born in Dalmatia, studied in Rome, travelled widely, visited the Holy Land and lived as a hermit in the desert for five years. Was ordained in Antioch and studied under Gregory of Nazianzus. His ambition was to complete a new translation of the entire Bible in Latin from the Hebrew and Greek texts. Jerome became very influential in the Vatican and might have succeeded Damasus I as Pope but his overbearing and sarcastic manner made him much resented. After some unfounded allegations he had to leave Italy and went to Bethlehem and settled in a cave where he worked on his translations and commentaries with the help of scribes and copyists. When a wealthy Roman woman, Paula, endowed a monastery in Bethlehem, Jerome became its Abbot.

*Anglican
Communion* Diocese of Hpa-an - (Province of Myanmar) Bishop Saw Stylo, clergy and people.
Anglican chaplains and missionaries worked in Burma in the early and mid-nineteenth century. The Province of Myanmar was formed in 1970, nine years after the declaration of Buddhism as the state religion and four years after all foreign missionaries were forced to leave. The church is not involved in social work as this field of action is totally taken over by the government. The Church of Myanmar has 6 Dioceses. Anglican membership totals 62,000 out of an estimated population of 48,300,000. There are 300 parishes and 125 priests.
