Thursday 4 October St Francis of Assisi (Friar, Deacon 1181-26)

The son of a prosperous merchant who dramatically renounced his heritage in order to follow a simple life of poverty outside the framework of the monastic system. He founded the Friars Minor now the Society of St Francis (SSF), who took literally Christ's injunction to travel and preach the Gospel without money or baggage. Francis always worked within the framework of the Church and his respect for the priesthood led him to refuse ordination as a priest and he remained a deacon and left the management of his Order to others. He encouraged Clare of Assisi to found a parallel Order for women and started a Third Order for lay people committed to a Rule of Life.

William Tynedale Translator, Martyr, 1494-536

A biblical scholar, determined to make a new translation of the Bible into English working directly from the Greek. After being rebuffed by the Bishop of London, he went to Germany to work with Lutheran scholars. His translation of the NT was smuggled into England but publicly burned in 1526. He continued to work on the OT but had, frequently, to evade arrest. In 1535 he was arrested in Antwerp and imprisoned. The following year he was executed. His last words were said to have been: 'Lord, open the King of England's eyes'. The beauty of Tyndale's language later became recognised and much of Cranmer's Great Bible of 1539 consists of Tyndale's translations as does much of the Authorised Version of the Bible.

Paulinus was sent from Rome by Gregory the Great to support Augustine of Canterbury on his English mission. Edwin of Northumbria wanted to marry a Kentish princess Ethelburga, a Christian. Edwin was a pagan. Edwin agreed to give Ethelburga and her household freedom to practise their faith and to consider becoming a Christian himself. Paulinus accompanied the princess north, Edwin was converted and, with his household was baptised. Large scale conversions followed and a cathedral was started but Edwin was killed in battle in 633. Friday 12 October St Wilfrid

Wilfrid was an English bishop and saint. Born a Northumbrian noble, he entered religious life as a teenager and studied at Lindisfarne, Canterbury, Gaul, and at Rome. He returned to Northumbria around 660, and became the abbot of a newly founded monastery at Ripon. He became Bishop of York covering the whole of Northumbria, built magnificent stone churches at Ripon and Hexham. He acquired vast landholdings and established several monasteries and converted Sussex, the last vestige of paganism, to Christianity. He was the confidant of kings and queens but made many powerful enemies and was twice banished from Northumbria. He was not afraid to seek papal jurisdiction over both crown and church where he felt badly treated. His life was threatened many times and he was imprisoned in Northumbria by the king. Wilfrid died round 709 and after his death, he was venerated as a saint.

St Teresa of Avila

St Teresa of Avila, was born in 1558 and was educated by the Augustinian nuns at Avila. Teresa is one of the foremost writers on prayer, and her position among writers on mystical theology is unique. In all her writings on this subject, she deals with her personal experiences. Her deep insight and analytical gifts helped her to explain them clearly. Despite frail health and great difficulties, Teresa spent much of her life establishing and nurturing 16 or more convents throughout Spain. She died in 1582, just as Catholic nations were making the change from the Julian to the Gregorian calendar which required the removal of 5–14 October from the calendar. She died either before midnight of 4 October or early in the morning of 15 October 1582 which is celebrated as her feast day.

Nicolas Ridley and Hugh Latimer

Nicholas Ridley had been a chaplain to King Henry VIII and was Bishop of London under his son Edward. He was a preacher beloved of his congregation whose very life portrayed the truths of the Christian doctrines he taught. In his own household he had daily Bible readings and encouraged Scripture memory among his people. Hugh Latimer was also an influential preacher under King Edward's reign. He was an earnest student of the Bible, and as Bishop of Worcester encouraged the Scriptures be known in English by the people. He was renowned for his works, especially his visitations to the prisons. Both Ridley and Latimer were burned at the stake in Oxford on this day, October 16, 1555.

It is made up of two mainland dioceses and six island dioceses, including Barbados, Belize, Guyana, Jamaica, Nassau and the Bahamas, Tobago, Trinidad, and the Windward Islands. Wednesday 31 October Martin Luther

Martin was an Augustinian canon, a theologian and official preacher to the parish church at Wittenberg. In protest against the sale of indulgencies by Friar Tetzel in 1517, he nailed his 95 theses to the door of the church. This started a movement which took him and much of northern Europe outside the jurisdiction of the Catholic Church. He was excommunicated and only escaped imprisonment with the aid of some German princes. The new Protestant theology which developed went far beyond his proposals for reform.
